

HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Objectives

To prepare professionals who are highly trained in the planning, organization, consultancy, counseling, administration, supervision, and assessment of the educational process at the different levels of the national educational system, as well as to prepare people qualified to provide training for companies.

Areas for Potential Employment

Graduates of this program will be able to work in the public and/or private sector, as well as for: the Ministry of Public Education; educational institutions; career-guidance, vocational, or professional centers; psychological-pedagogical and teacher-training departments; schools for special education; educational research centers; publishing houses for educational publications; centers for teaching-learning consultancy and training departments in companies and industries, among others.

First Semester

- Philosophical Anthropology
- Learning Methods and Techniques
- Computing in Education
- Introduction to Pedagogical Research
- Advanced Spanish I
- Development of Creativity

Second Semester

- Educational Epistemology
- Pedagogical Theory
- The Psychology of Learning and Motivation
- Advanced Spanish II
- Knowledge of Childhood
- Descriptive Statistics

Third Semester

- The Psychology of Motivation
- Educational Sociology
- The Art of Teaching
- Psychological Techniques in Pedagogy
- Practice Teaching I
- Knowledge of Adolescence
- Inferential Statistics

Fourth Semester

- The Psychology of Adults and Aging
- Educational Psychology
- Education for Health
- General History of Education
- Practice Teaching II
- Use of Tests in Guidance Counseling

Fifth Semester

- Educational Administration
- History of Education in Mexico
- Teaching Models
- Practice Teaching III
- Media Didactics
- Human Relations in Education

Sixth Semester

- Educational Technology
- Guidance Counseling
- Educational Planning
- Practice Teaching IV
- Educational Assessment
- Learning Problems

Education

Student Profile

The student in this program should:

- Have a spirit of service;
- Be able to analyze and synthesize;
- Have good oral and writing skills;
- Have good interpersonal skills;
- Be enthusiastic and dynamic;
- Be proactive and creative;
- Have leadership skills.

Seventh Semester

- Educational Legislation
- Curriculum Design
- The Philosophy of Education
- Educational Supervision
- Leadership in Education
- Special Education

Eighth Semester

- Professional Ethics
- Teaching Laboratory
- Research Seminar
- Teacher Counseling
- Family Orientation

