

Global Learning Semesters

Course Syllabus

Course: COMM-341 Topics in Communication

Department: Communications

Host Institution: University of Nicosia, Nicosia, Cyprus

Course Summary
Course Code	Course Title	Recommended Credit Hours
COMM-341	Topics in Communication	3
Semester Offered	Contact Hours	Prerequisites
Fall, Spring	42	As indicated in the separate courses taught under the individual code/name of the course in the series.
Department	Level of Course	Language of Instruction
Communications	Upper Division	Greek, English

Course Description

Each of the courses taught under this general title offers the student an opportunity to familiarize himself with the issues, as they stand at the time the topic is taught, through both a theoretical and a practical, applied approach. The theoretical background related with the topic or issue is combined with the analysis and evaluation of current media practices and/or problems connected with the topic (or issue) area of the course in the series.

Instructor

Different members of the faculty

Course Aims and Objectives

The courses under this general description, aim at giving the student the opportunity of studying current media communication topics or issues, which are of special current importance and can be taught under the overall title of "Topics in Communication". This goal seeks to keep the students updated with developments in the area of the Media, which are a socializing agent, functioning interactively with other social agents and in the context of the overall human and cultural environment.

Teaching Methods

As indicated in the separate courses taught under the individual code/name of the course in the series.

Course Teaching Hours

42 hours of lecturing, combined with all other teaching methods. The course is delivered using the Fall and Spring semesters in 14 weeks (3 hours/week).

Evaluation and Grading

As indicated in the separate courses taught under the individual code/name of the course in the series.

Readings and Resources

Required Textbook

As indicated in the separate syllabi of the separate courses offered in the series "Topics in Communication".